FARMERS' WEEK

Begins Week of January 6, 1913.
With Kentucky State University.

The week of January 6-11, 1913, has been designated by the Agricultural College of the Kentucky State University, at Lexington, as Farmers' Week. Following this will come the regular winter short course of ten weeks, arranged especially for the practical, busy farmer.

The Farmers' Week, is no new thing, as it has become one of the annual events arranged by the Extension Department of the College.

The week will be opened by the annual conventions of the various breeders' associations and other farmers' organizations of Kentucky. Tuesday has been designated as Swine day; Wednesday, Corn day; Thursday, sheep and horticultural day; Friday, dairy cattle day, and Saturday, horse and beef cattle day. The state corn show, the horticultural show and the dairy shows will be conducted throughout the entire week, a regular course of lectures accompanying.

While the programs of the various meetings will be largely filled by members of the associations, there will be men of national reputation in the various lines who will deliver the principal addresses.

It is earnestly hoped that a large number of persons will bring or send their corn, dairy products and horticultural products to exhibit or to compete for the prizes. The corn show includes the junior department. The women have not been neglected in the arrangements for Farmers' Week, for a special school of Household Economics has been provided for them.

Negotiations are under way for securing a reduced rate over all railroads. Boarding places at reasonable rates can be secured by asking the Superintendent of the Extension Division, at the college building. No expense or trouble has been spared to make the week as pleasant and profitable as can possibly be arranged and no farmer can afford to let this opportunity slip, as this is also the best chance that can be afforded for meeting and getting personally acquainted with the best farmers and breeders of our own state and many from other states.

Immediately following Farmers' Week will begin the Short Course in Agriculture, intended for the practical farmer. This course continues until the middle of March. This season is selected on account of its being the one when the farmer can best leave home.

The facilities for teaching are perhaps as good at the Kentucky Agricultural College as at any other place in the country, especially in regard to live stock and dairying. All is absolutely free.

Full information, premium lists and programs will be sent on application to T. R. BRYANT, Supt. Extension Division, College of Agriculture, Lexington, Ky.

WORTHINGTON.

Dec. 9.—Hog killing has been the fashion for the last few weeks. Nearly everyone is bringing now and are thinking the Christmas holidays and what they will throw and.

Miss Laura Mae Hardin was the guest Sunday of Miss Ruth Maddox. The teachers and pupils of the Glenview Baptist Sunday-school are preparing for a Christmas entertainment.

Captain Schroer of the Salvation Army will make a talk Sunday, Dec. 15, to the Sunday-school at Springdale church. On December 22 Rev. T. B. Grayston, a returned missionary, will lecture at the same place. Every one cordially invited.

Mr. and Mrs. Ted Garwood spent Sunday with Mr. B. L. Miller's family. Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Smith, of Brownboro and Mrs. Addie Johnson, of Prospect, were guests last week of Mr. Olando Johnson and family.

Miss Alberta Netherton delightfully entertained at supper Saturday evening in honor of her father, J. W. Netherton's birthday. Those present were Messrs. and Mesdames H. Mitchell, Sr., H. Mitchell, Jr., Wm. Prather, Ted Garwood, O. T. Hite, James Huber, Wilbur Little, J. W. Netherton, Jr., Wm. Netherton, Misses Ruth Pernell, Ethel May Prather and Dorothy Garwood. Several nice presents were received and all report a good time.

VALLEY STATION.

Dec. 9.—Mrs. Aubrey Wyatt and daughter, Alice, spent Sunday with Mr. J. W. Knader and family.

Miss Nora Rosenberg, of Louisville, visited her sister, Mrs. W. H. Moremen, Sunday.

Mrs. Anna Fenley left last Wednesday for Maitland, Fla., to spend the winter with Mr. Augustine Moremen and family.

Beckland Baptist Sunday-school will have their Christmas entertainment Monday evening, December 23, 7 o'clock.

Mr. Carter Johnson visited Mr. I. P. Moremen and family last week.

Mrs. J. H. Wilkerson will entertain the Ladies Aid of Hechland church at her home Thursday afternoon, December 12.

Mr. Horace Moremen left last Wednesday for Oakland, Fla.

Mr. Putman Moremen expects to leave this week for Switzerland, Fla., to spend the winter.

He Advertised—At Last.

There was a man in our town,
And he was wondrous wise;
He swore (it was his policy)
He would not advertise.
But one sad day he advertised,
And thereby hangs a tale,
The ad. was set in quite small type
And headed "Sheriff's Sale."

WEDDINGS

Are Over Between the Pikes—
Timely And Good News Letter.

Between the Pikes, Dec. 9th.—The long-talked-of weddings are over, and the happy young couples have settled down to housekeeping, each of the three newly weds living right among us. Miss Docia Parris and Mr. Henry Kaufman, who were married the 27th of November were given a rousing big charivari. Fifty-seven lively young men and boys were there to greet them with all the noises obtainable. Eighty-two dynamite cartridges were fired with a terrific explosion, shocking Mrs. Parris into a dangerous fright and jarring Mr. Parris' entire house, breaking several window panes, but no real danger was done. A few years ago when Mr. and Mrs. John Farrer were married Mr. Henry Kaufman spared no pains to give them a big fright with heavy charges of dynamite, touched off near the house. He succeeded in frightening Mrs. Farrer and that is why he was given such a noisy affair on the 27th of November. The day after the wedding Henry's parents gave him and his bride a big reception dinner. Fifty-eight guests partook of the sumptuous feast. Two large turkeys were among the many good things served.

Mr. Everett Stansbury and wife came out on a three days hunt recently. He had the pleasure of tramping all over the country without bagging much game, like most hunters this season.

Game is very scarce. Some parties hunt all day with no success. It is owing to the hard winter last year; we are told thousands of quail starved to death, while many were kept alive by farmers feeding them wheat. There were very few cedar berries for birds to feed on last year, and the extremely cold winter was more than they could stand. But we do not believe the winter last year froze out the rabbits. They did great damage to gardens last summer, and are sharp little creatures. As soon as they hear the report of a gun they know it is safest for them to keep close at home. We believe they are plentiful, but hiding till the game law expires. See?

A bright, lovely little baby boy was born to Mr. and Mrs. John P. Farmer on the 23rd of November, named John Hudson. Both mother and babe are doing fine. We feel proud of our two grandsons, but it makes us feel awfully old.

Miss Georgia Fisher is making preparations to spend the holidays in the city with Mr. and Mrs. Everett Stansbury.

Mrs. L. V. Haasbrough and son, McClure, spent Friday in Louisville, the guests of John Hudson Farmer.

It is zero weather again. Very fine on fresh meat. Several farmers around us have killed their hogs, while others expect to kill next week. Hog killing is hard on the housewife, and more to be dreaded than the annual spring cleaning, but it is a luxury as well as a necessity to farm life.

Two weeks and three days from today the glad Christmas time will be upon us. The little people are beginning to write Santa Claus to bring them the gifts they wish for and to wish for snow as usual. The heads of families are making preparations to give the children a merry time. When we think how soon childhood's happy days will end and the caves of maturity will soon be theirs, we should strive to give them all the innocent pleasure obtainable. We look back to our childhood days when our parents aimed to make Christmas the happiest times of our lives, and so well did they succeed that we have often wished Christmas came more than once a year.

SMYRNA.

Dec. 9.—Mr. and Mrs. Seibert and little daughter, of Louisville, were recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Rush.

Rev. and Mrs. E. W. Elliott were guests of Mrs. Harrison Rush Sunday.

Miss Ruth Hughes was over-night guest of Mrs. Peyton Hall Sunday.

Mrs. Will Moore spent Friday with relatives in Louisville.

Mrs. James Nett and Miss Annie Cary spent a day last week with Mrs. Charles Cummins.

Mrs. Geo. Hughes and daughter, Louise, were entertained at dinner Sunday by Mrs. Ed Craig.

Tom Groves and family, of Fern Creek, were recent guests of Miss Alice Bates.

Mrs. P. E. Bates and Mrs. W. H. Pagan spent Sunday with their sister, Miss Lana Fryer at Fern Creek.

We are glad to report the latter is doing nicely after a severe spell of sickness.

Mrs. Scott Harding, of Louisville, has returned home after several days' stay with her father, Mr. Sam Bates.

Miss Minnie McCollough has returned to her home in Louisville, after a short visit with her nephew, James McCollough, Jr.

Mr. Wheeler and family have moved into their home they recently purchased from Mr. J. M. Snauder.

Mrs. Charlie Gostley has returned home after spending several days with her sister, Mrs. Albert Spears, of Louisville.

Mrs. Alice Bates entertained at dinner Sunday Messrs. Shaw Hall, Viola Farmer, and Leah Bates and Ruth Hughes.

Miss Annie Carver entertained Mrs. J. P. Nett and Mrs. Asa Lutes at dinner one day last week.

Mrs. Alice Jackson spent Tuesday in Louisville.

Mr. Horace Moore died at his home here this morning of tuberculosis after a long illness. He is survived by his wife and son, age four years. Interment tomorrow at Penn Run conducted by Rev. E. W. Elliott.

Otis Stivers and family spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. H. T. Cardwaine.

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Walker were visitors of Mrs. E. W. Stansbury, Mrs. Emma and Leah Bates recently visited their brother, L. E. Bates, and family, of Jeffersonton.

PRESTONIA.

Dec. 9.—Mrs. Burks McDowell spent Sunday in Lawton Heights the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Sanders.

Mr. and Mrs. G. G. Neal are moving to the city to spend the winter.

Mrs. Wm. Wind is visiting her daughter, Mrs. Chas. Lewis, of Louisville.

Mrs. John Cowley returned to her home at Vine Grove Friday after a visit to her relatives here.

Don Carlos Jones filled the appointment in the hall at Okolona Sunday afternoon at 3 p. m. All are invited to attend these services.

Dr. M. L. Cooper and Miss Fannie Cooper were guests of Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Ireland Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. E. M. McKinley moved to their home at Thixton, on the Barstons road the past week.

Miss Bettie Ireland is spending the week with Miss Fannie Cooper. Dr. C. L. Cooper and wife and Mr. Sam Cooper left Wednesday for Standford, Texas, to spend the winter. News was received here Friday of the death of Mr. John Dobyns at his home in Kansas City, after a lingering illness of paralysis. Mr. Dobyns was well and favorably known here, having married Mrs. Ada Bell Hill, who was reared near here, and he frequently visited here with his wife, who is a sister of Mrs. Burks McDowell and Frank Bell. The friends of Mrs. Dobyns sympathize with her in her great bereavement.

CRUSHED BY LOG

Teamster Loses His Life While Loading Wagon From Car
at Tucker Station.

James Henry Vaughn, fifty-five years of age, a teamster of Jeffersonton, was crushed by a log at Tucker Station at 9 o'clock last Friday morning and died twenty minutes later of the injuries received. The body was taken to the undertaking establishment of Myers & Blankenbaker, at Jeffersonton.

The victim was working with other men loading logs into cars of the Southern Railway Company when the log got away from them, and rolling down a ten-foot embankment struck Vaughn in the back. It did not roll upon his body and the injuries were inflicted by the blow. He was carried into the store of R. B. Tyler & Co., where he expired soon after without having regained consciousness.

Life was extinct before the arrival of Drs. L. A. Blankenbaker and Wm. F. Stucky, who were called. Mrs. Vaughn was notified by telephone that her husband had been injured and was hurriedly driven to the scene. Upon learning of his death she became hysterical with grief and was attended by physicians and taken to her home.

Vaughn had been a resident of Jeffersonton about a year, coming to Jeffersonton from near Bedford, Ind. The body was taken to Indiana for interment.

Enjoyable Occasion.

Mr. and Mrs. William Markwell delightedly entertained at their home near Primrose on Saturday evening, Nov. 30, in honor of their daughter, Miss Rosa Markwell, and teacher, Miss Nell Singleton. Those that enjoyed the evening were Misses Tina Tyler, Amelia, Minnie and Lucy Crenshaw, Grace, Ada and Hattie Easley, Stella and Ada Brumley, Hazel Bryant, Etta Wallace, Ruby Carter, Mamie McGraw, Edna Tyler, Roy Markwell and Nell Singleton. Messrs. Curtis and Lawrence Solter, James Tichenor, Cleveland Eldridge, Rooster Walker, Guy and Howard Cornell, Julien McGraw, Vain Hills, Wesley House, Herbert Summers, Bradley Brown, Tom Tyler, Ester Walls, Guy Easley, Albert Markwell, Chas. Johnson, Dr. J. F. Furnish, Lloyd Wallace, Charles Simpson, Frances Clark and Herbert O'Bryant. An enjoyable evening was spent in playing the piano, singing and playing the usual party games. A delicious candy treat was served about 10 o'clock and the guests departed at a late hour wishing many more parties to be given at this home in the future.

Could Shoot For Joy.

"I want to thank you from the bottom of my heart," wrote C. B. Rader, of Louisville, T. Va., "for the wonderful double benefit I got from Electric Bitters, in curing me of both a severe case of stomach trouble and of rheumatism, from which I had been an almost helpless sufferer for ten years. It suited my case as though made for me." For dyspepsia, indigestion, jaundice and to rid the system of kidney poisons that cause rheumatism, Electric Bitters have no equal. Try them. Every bottle is guaranteed to satisfy. Only 50 cents at all druggists.—(Advertisement)

Back in Newspaper Game.

Representative Adam Spahn, of the Forty-sixth legislative district, the Second and Third wards of Louisville, has gone back into the newspaper game, having bought the outfit of the Germantown News, says the Louisville Times. He will continue its publication weekly in magazine form instead of the regular newspaper style as formerly. It will be a straight Democratic sheet. Several months ago Representative Spahn sold to The Jeffersonian the Bucchee Enterprise, which he founded and built up to a paying basis. Mr. Spahn is an avowed candidate for re-election to the Legislature and will seek renomination at the Democratic primary next August.

Rush-Spauding.

The marriage of Mr. John Rush of Smyrna, and Miss Jennie Spaulding, of Hardin county, took place in the parlors of the Rev. E. W. Elliott, on the Bardstown Road, Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock. The ceremony was performed by Mr. Elliott in the presence of a few friends and relatives, and the bride and groom left for a trip through Kentucky. Upon their return they will reside at Smyrna. Mr. Rush is the son of Mr. W. J. Rush, and a bustling young farmer, while his bride is one of Hardin county's most popular young ladies. The Jeffersonian extends best wishes to the happy couple.

Entertained.

St. Matthews, Dec. 10.—Mr. and Mrs. Z. Zehnder had as their guests Sunday, December 1, Mr. and Mrs. John S. Kaelin, Sr., and their daughter, Rosalene, and Mr. and Mrs. Constantine Kurlitz and daughters, Pauline and Alberta Maria, and Mrs. Matt Oechslein and Mr. Geo. Worch. Mr. and Mrs. Matt Oechslein had as their guests Sunday Mr. and Mrs. S. Bisig, Mr. John S. Kaelin, Jr., Mr. Louis Kaelin, Mr. Herman Bisig, Miss Josephine Kaelin, Miss Rosalene Kaelin, Miss Catherine Bisig, Miss Maria Bisig. All report a good time.

Horace Moore Dead.

Horace Moore, aged 35 years, passed away at his home near the High View schoolhouse Sunday night, after a lingering illness of tuberculosis. He was a well known farmer of that section, and is survived by his mother, wife and son and three brothers. The funeral services were conducted Tuesday morning by Rev. E. W. Elliott at Penn Run church and burial took place in the Penn Run cemetery.

Supper and Bazaar.

The ladies of the Jeffersontown Methodist church will have a bazaar and supper at the house of Mrs. Emory Harris, recently vacated by Arch Bridwell on Tuesday and Wednesday, December 17 and 18, afternoon and evening. Everybody is invited to come.

Card of Thanks.

I desire to hereby extend my most grateful and heartfelt thanks to the Christian friends and neighbors of Jeffersontown for the goodness and the kindness extended to me in the loss of my beloved husband.

MRS. ELIZABETH VAUGHN.

Serious Operation.

Mrs. W. C. Burdon, of 1924 South Fourth avenue, Louisville, is at the Norton Infirmary, where she underwent a very serious operation performed by Dr. McMurtry and is doing nicely.

OKOLONA.

Dec. 10.—Misses Catherine and Mary Bischoff entertained the first of the week. Those present were Misses Lula Olges, Mary and Anna Bischoff, Lula Jones, Catherine and Lillian Olges, Lillian Tobbe, Dorothy Bischoff, Messrs. William Gentler, Frank Bischoff, John Tobbe, John Heskamp, George Gentry, Henry Olges.

Miss Catherine Javanaugh, of Louisville, was the guest of Mrs. Welsh Saturday and Sunday. A most delightful surprise party was tendered Mr. Edward Bischoff Saturday night, Dec. 7, 1912, by a number of his friends in honor of his birthday anniversary, at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. F. Bischoff. Music and games were the features of the evening and delicious refreshments were served at a late hour. Mr. Bischoff has a host of friends who wish him many returns of the day.

Mr. and Mrs. Theo. Walsh were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. F. Bischoff the last of the week.

Amount Subscribed For New School.

Subscriptions to School Fund
Friday Night $301—Other Matters Attended to.

The Jeffersontown Commercial Club held a very enthusiastic meeting last Friday night. A large crowd was present and two new members were received.

The question of the ladies entertainment was discussed, and it was announced that the ladies could not give the entertainment on December 31, but would wait till a more convenient season. The ladies proposed raising $5.00 each by 25 cent subscriptions, but this was opposed by the Club, as the members are not yet ready to accept so small an amount for the new school.

All bills having been paid in connection with the carnival held here last summer one-half the net proceeds were turned over to the town trustees to be used toward lighting the town by electricity.

Two members of the School Committee reported subscriptions for the new school, as follows:

J. C. BRUCE:

Edw. J. Fegenbush	5
Alex Staebler	5
R. W. Cole	25
John Bueche, Jr.	5
Sheldon B. Surles	10
Jas. P. Gregory	10

Total	$ 216

By R. B. SMITH:

W. J. Leatherman	5
W. A. Wheeler	10
C. S. Riley	50

Total

The above amounts added to subscriptions previously reported make a grand total of $6,269.50, which will be used in erecting a new school in Jefferson Heights. The building committees of the Club and County Board of Education are now working on plans for the new building.

NARROW ESCAPE

For Dr. A. A. Koehler When
Auto Knocks Buggy Over
Embankment.

Dr. A. A. Koehler, the veterinary of Fern Creek, came near losing his life last Monday morning as the result of an automobile accident. As he was attempting to leave the Bardstown Road and drive into Cartwright lane, an automobile occupied by Messrs. Frank I. Wheeler, Talbott, McCrocklin and Spaulding, all of Bardstown, struck his vehicle, frightened the horse, throwing Dr. Koehler to the ground and overturning the buggy. The horse and buggy rolled down a thirty-foot embankment, demolishing the vehicle and only slightly injuring the horse. Dr. Koehler received only a few bruises, but his escape from serious injury is considered miraculous.

The occupants of the automobile stopped their merriment and offered assistance to the injured man. The cause of the accident, it is alleged, was on account of the driver of the auto not knowing Dr. Koehler was going to turn off of the main road.

SEALED PROPOSALS, marked "Proposals for Superintendent's Residence" and inclosed in an envelope addressed, "Commissioner of Fisheries, Department of Commerce and Labor, Washington, D. C.," will be received until 2 o'clock p. m. on January 3, 1913, and then be opened, for the construction of a Superintendent's residence at the Louisville, Ky., Fisheries station. The right is reserved to reject any and all bids, to waive any defects, and to accept any part of any bid and reject the other part. BUECHEL

Buechel, Dec. 10.—There will be services at Fairview Christian church Monday night, December 10 at 7:30 o'clock. Everybody welcome. On Wednesday night, December 18, baptismal services will be conducted in Louisville for those who have just recently become members of Fairview congregation.

Mrs. Fannie Kilgore, of Louisville, president of the C. W. B. M. of this district, made a missionary address at Fairview church Sunday morning. An auxiliary has been organized and several new members were added on that morning.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Ludwig had as their guests on Sunday afternoon Mr. and Mrs. Krieger, of Louisville. Mrs. F. S. Skiles, Miss Adella Bishop and Miss Dorothy Skiles.

Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Seav entertained several friends at dinner Sunday in honor of Mrs. Fannie Kilgore, of Louisville.

Little Miss Mabel Behm, who was accidentally hurt several weeks ago while her parents were moving, is very much improved and is able to be out again.

Miss Nettie Diemer, who is to be married on December 18 to Mr. Harry McGavock, of Louisville, was given a kitchen shower Wednesday afternoon at the home of Miss Elsie Rommel.

Mr. and Mrs. James Bryna and little daughter are moving to their lovely new home just recently completed.

Mrs. Wm. E. Mudd, of Louisville, formerly of Buechel, was badly hurt in a street car accident last week.

A valuable horse belonging to Charles Hart, of Newburg, was very badly hurt Saturday by an automobile colliding with it. One of the animal's ankles was broken and had to be killed.

A lecture on bookworm was given at Hikes schoolhouse Monday evening by Dr. Richmond. Quite a number of our citizens went out to hear him.

Mr. and Mrs. R. Hardmeier and daughter have moved to their new bungalow in Buechel.

Mrs. M. Layer, of West Louisville, will entertain at an afternoon tea Thursday in honor of Misses Elizabeth and Dorothy Skiles.

Mrs. H. Collins and daughter, Miss Ethel Lohr, were guests of Mrs. Wm. B. Fishback and daughter Thursday. The following young people were present at the party given by the Misses Westerman on Tuesday night. Refreshments were served and after having a most delightful evening the guests departed at a late hour. Misses Lillie Koehler, Viola Ward, Clyde Martin, Edie Koehler, Dora Parrott, Freda Schneider, Marguerite Martin, Martha Parrott, Gertrude Koehler, Virginia Westerman, Margaret Williams, Minnie Westerman, Bessie Wright, Messrs Arthur Lyons, Willie Inyard, Peter Baker, Hartford Parrott, Robert Gentry, Arthur Wright, Eddie Young, Tony Koehler, Theodore Schneider, Rodell Bates, Maury Wright, Forest Williams, Earl Ward, William Johnson, Mrs. A. A. Koehler and Mr. and Mrs. John Westerman and Mitchell Hall.

Mr. Wm. Fishback and family had as their guests on Sunday last Mr. and Mrs. Edward Bower, of Oak Grove neighborhood, and Miss Jessie Blankenbaker, of Fairmont.

Mr. and Mrs. Claude spent Sunday with Jesse Parrott and family at Fern Creek.

Wm. Yann was a guest of relatives in Charleston Ind., the first of the week.

There will be an entertainment given by the members of Beulah Sunday school on the evening of December 24th at the Beulah Presbyterian church. Everybody invited to attend. The exercises begin about 7:30 p. m.

Mr. and Mrs. T. Yann and family spent Sunday with H. G. Heskamp and family.

Mrs. Charles Hughes, of Louisville, spent Sunday with her daughter, Mrs. H. P. Stivers.

Wm. Christman and family dined with H. F. Schneider and family on Sunday.

Miss Bessie Wright visited her cousin, Miss Carrie Wright, near Jeffersontown, for several days last week.

Miss Mattie Miller was hostess at a play party Tuesday evening at her home in Fern Creek. A large number were present.

Miss Margaret Huen spent Monday and Tuesday with her sister, Mrs. T. Yann, at Valley Station.

Mr. and Mrs. P. Saam and family moved to Louisville last Tuesday from their late residence in Buechel. The many friends that they have made while residing here regret very much to see them leave this community.

Mr. and Mrs. John Yann attended services in Louisville on Sunday and dined with Mrs. Lottie Marsh.

Successful Pie Supper.

The pie supper given at Calvary schoolhouse Saturday night was a success. A large crowd was present and $23.00 was made. It will be used to employ a janitor.

YULE-TIDE

Spirit Is On At St. Matthews.

A. B. C. Writes Happenings Among the Saints During Past Week.

St. Matthews, Dec. 9.—We had revealed in the balmy breezes even this much of the Christmas month, until all had the settled conviction that old winter had lost his way, but alas for human calculation! An East wind, which from the beginning of time brought terrors unspeakable, as he shook us to the icy blast, making us shake in our shoes until the sun warmed it to the bearable point.

Every car was loaded with Christmas shoppers; each one returned in the evening tired and jaded with very little accomplishment; with the same old story of crowded stores, a "delegation six feet through" at every counter and the way they waited, seged and even threatened the distracted clerks, would take more space of this valuable Jeffersonian than I am allowed, hence I draw the veil, leaving the conditions to your vivid imagination.

Prof. Moore, of the Manual Training School, has moved to Matthew Avenue and we are proud indeed to have him and his family among us.

Three new houses in Carnell addition are near completion. This with the new electric line rapidly progressing, makes us feel like our town is on a boom.

Mrs. Santa Claus is heralded to arrive at Mrs. Robert Hite's December 23 to meet Bear Grass children at a Yule-Tide party with games, songs, presents, goodies to eat and even to bake a cake for Charlie. A rigid investigation is on foot now as to who and where and how Mrs. Santa Claus will be produced. Can you guess? If so, keep quiet for the children's sake.

I append the invitation given for Mrs. Santa Claus for the little folks of The Jeffersonian living at Bear Grass as they desired it printed, reporting her visit in this vicinity.

YULE-TIDE PARTY.

You're invited to a party

With Christmas cheer quite hearty, And old Mrs. Santa Claus will be there She is coming to the States with toys, dolls and skates,

For good boys and girls to share In the home of Mrs. Robert Hite Who welcomes one just right.

We will meet all our children fair, On the twenty-third at two. Let everyone of you meet Mrs. Santa there

Young and old will be jolly Under mistletoe and holly I declare.

B. G. S. S.

For the first time in many years I am minus a list of marriages to report for the holidays. There are, of course, the usual indications that their intentions turn that way, yet they try to blind me in a way and seem to "Stand and tremble on the brink and fear to launch away." Likely these girls expect old Santa Claus to put prince charming down the chimney made to order. If he does, then I will let you know.

Miss Mabel Rudy has gone to Indianapolis to visit relatives, but will return for the holidays.

Miss Mary Ediger is visiting Mrs. Rudy Ellingsworth at Middletown. It's a dull time when these lively girls go away.

A. B. C.

Miss Bettie Prather Dead.

Hickman, Ky., Dec. 9.—Miss Bettie Prather, of Louisville, died at the home of her nephew, Dr. John Prather, at Woodland, seven miles from here. Miss Prather had just concluded a visit here with her nephew, F. B. Prather, Sr., and family, and went to visit Dr. John Prather a few days ago, where she was stricken with pneumonia immediately after arriving there. She was seventy-nine years old, was born and reared in this vicinity, but had resided in Louisville for several years. She was a member of one of the oldest and best known families in this country.

Miss Prather formerly resided in Jeffersontown and was well and favorably known here, where she had many friends.

Pie Supper.

The Jeffersontown school will give a box social and pie supper on Friday night, Dec. 20. All are cordially invited to attend.

MR. MARDFIELD'S

CHRISTMAS GRANDSON.

"I WONDER who they are," said old Mr. Mardfield. He was standing at the window of the breakfast room, looking across the sunny street at an unperturbed little cottage.

"Whom do you mean, uncle?" asked Clara Barton, who expected to be her granduncle's helms.

"Why, those people across the way?" "Oh, common folks, I dare say. No-body else would live in that house."

Old Mardfield came to the breakfast table. He sighed softly as he took the cup from Clara's jeweled hand.

"Uncle, dear, you are very silent," said Clara.

"I was only thinking, my dear," said the old gentleman apologetically.

"Only thinking?" Yes, his mind had gone back years along the dusty track of time, and he had been mutely pondering upon what the result would have been had he shaped his course differently in the days that were gone.

He had had a son once, of whom he had been proud and fond, and if—"I would have done anything for him—anything," thought Mardfield, answering his coffee, "if he would only have been willing to consult my feelings a little. But when he married that western girl it was like drawing a gulf between us, and he knew it. But his dead now, and even on his deathbed he was too proud to send for his old father."

These were the thoughts that were passing through old Mardfield's mind. As the old gentleman was returning from a walk later in the cool sunshine a little fellow hanging over the gate accosted him eagerly.

"Mr. you you Santa Claus?" "Not that I know of. Why?"

"You are like the picture in my book," said the boy—"a fat old gentleman, with a long white beard and lots of pearls."

And my mamma said Santa Claus wouldn't come to our house 'cause we were so poor. And I want a stocking full of toys like the other boys, and a new sled, and a pair of skates, and I thought if I saw Santa Claus I'd ask him."

Here a soft voice from the window called "Lionel! Lionel!" and the apartment slipped down from the gate and ran away.

"A cunning little rogue!" thought Mardfield. "Santa Claus, eh? An old gentleman with a long white beard—ha! ha! And I might have had just such a chubby rascal of a grandson as that if only—I wonder if they would object to my adopting him? Santa Claus, eh? Well, I believe I will turn Santa Claus for once!"

The stars were shining out, tiny points of gold, through the darkness of the Christmas eve, when Mr. Mardfield knocked at the door of the little cream-colored cottage.

"Come in!" a gentle voice called, and Mardfield, creeping his way through a smothered hallway, found himself in the presence of a sweet faced woman in a pillow chair, her fingers busied in some piece of knitting.

"Madam," said he, bowing courteously. "I am Santa Claus!"

And then he told her the story of how little Lionel had accosted him in the morning.

"You are very kind, sir," said the woman tremulously. "We are poor—poor, in fact, that the barest necessities of life are sometimes beyond our reach—and little Lionel's dream of Santa Claus must have gone unrealized if it were not for your thoughtful consideration."

She smiled faintly, with a motion of her white transparent hand toward the chimney, but as Mr. Mardfield turned round to look he started as if smitten by some sudden blow.

"My God! he is enigmatical—some picture in that hanging over the mantle!"

"Your husband's portrait, sir."

"Your husband's? Then," and he turned once more to face her, "you are Charles's wife?"

"My husband's name was Charles Mardfield," she answered. "Little Lionel, awakened by the loud voice in which the old gentleman had spoken set up in his bed, with disheveled curls and hot eyes."

"What, then, Santa Claus?" he cried. "Mamma! I know he'd come!"

"My child," said Mr. Mardfield, lifting the little form in his arms, "Santa Claus has sent you a grandfather."

Managing Things

"I really don't think we're going to have enough tables for all the people," complained Miss Jones at the church dinner, with a deepening of the wrinkles of many cares. "I don't see why the minister made it such a public announcement. He might have known that we have to borrow dishes for the dinner."

"Never mind," soothed Mrs. Burrows, pushing chairs into the various places, meanwhile glancing complacently at the clock. "It's about time to begin, and we're all ready."

Miss Jones moved nervously over to one of the tables. "I really don't think these flowers are fresh enough, do you?" she asked of any one who might choose to answer as she fussed over them and replaced several stems. "The florist promised faithfully that he'd pick out perfectly fresh ones—but I knew we couldn't trust him!"

"Oh, did you buy the flowers?" some one inquired politely.

"No, they didn't put me on the committee. But I know that florist of old, so I just called him up this afternoon and told him that I wouldn't tolerate any tricks. I told him that he'd better send fresh flowers or he'd lose our trade!"

Miss Jones moved away, greatly agitated over the falseness of the word of florists.

"Oh, are you going to wear that big apron?" she inquired, stopping a small girl who was hurrying in with a tray of dishes. "I thought all the girls were going to wear small round aprons. I suppose it's all right, but I think uniformity is much better. Didn't any one tell you? But, of course, no one did. It seems that if I don't take hold and do things nothing ever gets done!"

She darted over to a far corner, as she spied the minister approaching. "Oh, I'm so glad you've come!" she exclaimed. "I'm sure I don't know who is in charge—but there ought to be some head, that's sure! Who is going to take the tickets? We ought to station some one at the door. People are just thronging in, and you know that some people can't be trusted!"

"By the way," as he turned to leave, "you'd better announce at the beginning of the dinner that everybody must hurry and get through, for we've got a lot of business to attend to—and besides all the dishes have to be washed and put away!"

"What?" she cried a little later, as she watched the service. "Are you putting all that meat on one plate?" Her tone was horror-struck. "Oh, of course, they're hungry, but church is no place for them to come to stuff themselves! I'd just put about half as much meat on six plates—they'll never have enough at that rate. Oh, of course, you know what you're doing, but I'll warrant that you'll regret it!"

She moved away hurriedly to see how the tables were progressing.

"Good evening, Mrs. Grey," she exclaimed, bending cordially over one of the diners. "Aren't you lucky to sit at the first table? I thought you were going to take charge of a table, but I suppose you were too busy with your home duties. I really ought to have stayed at home this evening—I've quantities of mending to do, and my room is growing fairly strange. I so seldom remain there long enough to look around! But then, since the church really needs my help, it's the least I can do to be here! If I manage to get any supper at all, I'm lucky. There's so much to look after!"

"You want some more cream?" she inquired at a table that was passing on her way to new fields. "Well, I'll see what I can do for you. Here," she called to a girl who was hastening by with a tray of hot potatoes, "won't you fill this pitcher? They want more cream. They've had only one cup of coffee apiece so far, but their cream is all gone! Cream is so expensive, too! I'll see that you get it in a minute," she added to the table awaiting the cream, as the girl sped away with the pitcher.

"I'm glad we don't have these church suppers very often," she remarked to a woman sitting near her when they were assembled after dinner for the church meeting. "If we did I'd be in my grave—I'm perfectly sure of that!"

"I second the motion," she called out an instant later as she caught the final words of the speaker. "What are they voting on?" she inquired of her neighbor. "I think we ought to show our interest by voting, don't you?"

"I'm glad it's over. I'm all worn out—and here I'm the last to leave, as usual," she said, wearily to the janitor, who waited patiently as she put on her hat and coat. "You'll be sure to lock up everything good and tight, won't you?"—Chicago Daily News.

Same Old Yarn.
"They tell me that your small boy says some unusually clever things."
"Yes, yes. Did you hear his latest?"
"Sure."

DECEMBER.

The Greeks of Winter will advance upon the Turks of Summer, and each succeeding circumstance will make the season glum. The fierce Bulgarians of snow will slay the Moslem weather, and the valiant hired man will sew six pairs of pants together. Beware when wintertime appears, and keep the furnace blowing, the ear-muffs handy to the ears, and the kitchen water flowing. The plumber waiteth to devour the first bank roll that hollers, and a little matter of an hour will cost eleven dollars.

The hungry wolf will venture out to sing of beer and skittles, and make a prophecy about the paucity of victuals. He'll cite the present plight of man, when eggs are worth a nickel, and laugh to think of when we can not even buy a pickle.

The Democrats have swept the earth. But it didn't help the chickens. If eggs persist at what they're worth, It means the very dickens. We needed that reform at once, And leaving us this menace, For all its legislative stunts, The party's name is Dennis.

A greater task than tariff cuts is that which touches chickens. We're feeding them on cocoanuts, and still the problem thickens. A hen is laying no more food than if she were a crackle, and the greater number seem inclined to do no more than cackle. Will some great statesman kindly say just what we ought to feed them? We miss the eggs they used to lay, and pitifully need them. A fig for plunderbunders loosed, and all our theorizing, let's have that omelet we used to gobble on arising!

The 21st of December will be the shortest day of the year! On that date the sun will cross the Tropic of Capricorn. Santa Claus will kick goal, and the ball will be returned to father on his 25-yard line. He will be doused in his tracks, and while the whole family sits on him the butcher, the baker and the candlestick maker will take turns making touchdowns until the police interfere.

O Santa Claus, dear Santa Claus, What can we get for father? We had no trouble finding Ma's. But this is such a terror, We've hung around the licoent stores For seven mornings steady, And they haven't anything of yours He hasn't had already.

Our Mr. Morgan will advance his usual invention, and hanging up his Sunday pants, command the chief attention. He'll work a funnel on his stack widepreading as the nation and in the outcome have no lack of cause for celebration.

The wealth of Croesus will descend with all the color of thunder, and his pants legs, knotted at the end, will hold a lot of plunder. Some laser stockings pinned about will marvel at the clatter, but doing in the end without, will know what was the matter.

After the 21st, December will be under the influence of Capricornus the Goat, who succeeds Sagittarius the Archer on that day. The difference between people born under

"JEST 'FORE CHRISTMAS"

BY EUGENE FIELD.

FATHER calls me William, sister calls me Will, Mother calls me Willie, but the fellows call me Bill. Mighty glad I ain't a girl—ruther be a boy. Without them sashes, curls an' things that's worn by Fauntleroy! Love to chawnk green apples an' go swimmin' in the lake—Hate to take the castor ile they give for belly ache! 'Most all the time, the whole year round, they ain't no flies on me, But jest 'fore Christmas I'm as good as I kin be!

Got a yeller dog named Sport, sick him on the cat; First thing she doesn't know where she's at! Got a clipper sled, an' when us kids go out to slide 'Long comes the grocery cart, an' we all hook a ride! But sometimes when the groceryman is worried an' cross He reaches at us with his whip an' larrups up his hoss, An' then I laff an' holler, "Oh, ye never teched me!" But jest 'fore Christmas I'm as good as I kin be.

Grammar says she hopes that when I git to be a man I'll be a missionaryer like her eldest brother Dan, As was et up by cannibals that lives on Ceylon's isle.

Where every prospect pleases an' only man is vile. But grammar she has never been to see a wild west show Nor read the life of Daniel Boone or else I guess she'd know That Buff'lo Bill an' cowboys is good enough for me! But jest 'fore Christmas I'm as good as I kin be!

An' then old Sport he hangs around as solemn-like an' still; His eyes they seem a-sayin', "What's the matter, little Bill?" The old cat sneaks down off her perch an' wonders what's become Of them two enemies of hern that use to make things hum! But I'm so polite an' 'ten so earnestly to biz That mother says to father, "How improved our Willie is!" But father, havin' been a boy himself, suspicious me! When jest 'fore Christmas I'm as good as I kin be!

For Christmas, with its lots and lots of candy, cakes and toys, Was made, they say, for proper kids and not for naughty boys; So wash yer face an' brush yer hair an' mind your p's an' q's, An' don't bust out yer pantaloons, an' don't wear out yer shoes; Say "yessum" to the ladies an' "yessur" to the men, An' when there's company don't pass your plate for pie again, But, thinkin' of the things yer'd like to see upon that tree, Jest 'fore Christmas be as good as yer kin be!

CHRISTMAS AMONG THE MIKADO'S PEOPLE.

WORDS adequate to a description of the festive season in Japan are difficult to command. Even the camera and brush would fail to do justice to a scene of such gay activity and color as Christmas approaches—city, town and village take on the new appearance, and the diversions of the people a new turn and tone. In Japan Christmas is not a mere holiday. It represents a holiday season in the fullest sense of the term.

For weeks before the dawn of Christmas day preparations elaborate in kind and degree are under way. Men in tight fitting costumes, their professions, or the contractors' names printed on their backs, spend day after day decorating the streets and houses. Stands for the lanterns and the festive greenings must be erected, and a thou-be, has some sign of the New Year idea. Before every gate and doorway is placed the chief symbol of the season, what the Japanese call the kadomatsu, or pine tree of the honorable date. At each side of the entrance to the house or garden three short pieces of bamboo tree, cut at an acute angle, stand tied together as a pedestal from which rises the ever glorious pine tree, in shape something like a Christmas tree, for the young pine is the emblem of a loyalty and life that are ever fresh and green.

In addition, over the door of each house is set up a brazier attached to an orange. These are usually the gifts of a friend to express the good wishes that the recipient will live till the joins are bent up like a lotus. Whether the orange represents orange blossoms and plenty of weddings in the family is not clearly known. Above the ornaments of the doorway is stretched a piece of artistically woven straw rope, the slight sign of reverence for the ancestral gods. As one goes along the streets they seem gradually to be transformed into long and winding avenues of trees, suggestions of the ancestral hunting grounds, and at night the whole is lit up by innumerable lanterns that shed a varicolored light on the decorations and the crowds that throng the thoroughfares. The blaze of lantern color lends the scene a magic touch that charms the Japanese mind and has so little attraction for the foreigner.

To tell of the endless array of gifts that at this season pass between friend and friend, neighbor and neighbor, would be impossible. Among the more common may be mentioned a basket containing a dozen eggs or oranges, a box of sponge cake, or a cake of soap, the latter gift being in no way intended as a reflection on the beneficiary.—New York Post.

Let Her Pass.

See the merry Christmas shopper, But for goodness' sake don't stop her! Let her hike along her pathway; Let her hike you with a smile. Though you know her, don't detain her. For she could not be plainer. That if you two get to chatting You will merely block the aisle.

Do not ask her how she's feeling, If her sister's baby's peeing. From that awful shriek fever Or 'till infect her mind. Don't inquire about her mother Or her nephew or her brother. Can she kiss gossip, lady, There's a crowd of us behind.

Do not ask her what she's knitting Or crocheting for a fitting Little Christmas gift this season. If you get her started she Will relate her whole life story. All its treasuries and glory. And there's full two hundred people Trying hard to walk on by.

See the merry Christmas shopper, But for goodness' sake don't stop her! There's no chat that you can think of Or really say worth while. Let her go about her buying. Shoulder to shoulder let her stride. Let her think to her you're dying. Cut it off this Christmas season. Let's have freedom in the aisle.

THE STREET'S REMEMBER WINDING AVENUE OF CHRISTMAS TREES.

If you can't support it in the style to which it has been accustomed, never take a furnace from its happy home. Get a common heating stove.

Some of the mosquitoes are hanging on and sprouting a growth of feathers for winter use.

It is said that an early cold snap in Mexico has shortened this season's crop of poll parrots. Good! This reminds me of the foretold of Uncle Mike Lindsey, who purchased all the gimlets Sorekeeper Nugent had in stock because he heard that the gimlet crop had been cut short by the severe drought, and that "gimlets would be gimlets next year."

The dudes and dudesses, like children, have periods when they are subject to epidemics. Just now they are threatened with that foolish mad-mad chrysan-the-nummumina.

In order to keep in touch with the season, the expression "doesn't cut any ice," might be changed to "doesn't carry any coal."

You can't tell the amount of brains in a woman's head by the size of the hat she wears, nor the amount of money she carries by a glance at her pocketbook.

I met Charley Busath the other day bustling around trying to borrow a shot gun to take hunting with him. I want to say right here that I would not lend a gun to the best sportsman in the State of Kentucky. If he was a good friend of mine and I had the money I might buy him a gun, or let him have it to buy one for himself, but with me to lend a gun is out of the question entirely. Such an act is not to be thought of for an instant—anything else but that—lend

In the fellowship of living things, in kindred ties of man and beast, in common courtesy that brings help from the greatest to the least; in love that all life should receive, I have believed and still believe.

The ashes of the coal you burned last winter will not heat the grate now.

A growler does little else in the world except to fling dark shadows into some one's sky, to cut off nism-light, to trust ugliness before his eyes, to mar his harmony and thus by the same destroy his own peace of mind. Who wants to be a growler, anyway?

Charlie Fegenbush says it was the fellow who voted the other way that causes all the trouble.

It is what a woman doesn't know that worries her.

Credit this to Banker Hikes: "Lies may fool a few people, but the truth fools a great many."

Some days ago I met a very old negro who claimed to have known George Washington. I asked him if he was in the boat when Washington crossed the Delaware. He instantly replied, "Lord mass, I steered that boat." Well do you remember when George took a hack at the cherry tree? He looked worried for a moment then with a beautiful smile said, "Why suh, massa, I done drove dat hack myself."

It was in a crowded car. The angel tread on Charley Busath's feet (he could not get around), "I beg pardon for walking on your feet," she apologized. "Oh that's all right," said Charley, I walk on them myself."

It is told as a fact, actually occurring, that two of our politically inclined ladies started to dress right after the dinner hour to go to the poles to vote. When they got through and arrived at the place the polls had been closed for an hour or more. But they were dressed all right, even if they were to late too vote.

Arbor Day should be more generally observed and more tree-planting done. This is one way to renew the forests and in time produce good results for beautiful and healthy surroundings along the road.

The mad desire to seem important keep many a citizen along the road from becoming important. They seem to stand too far in front of themselves.

Unjust Criticism.

Perhaps no class of people meet with so much or so severe criticism as teachers. Much of this criticism is unjust and exists solely because parents and others listen to unverified reports and do nothing to acquaint themselves of the real inner working of the school room. Any person experienced with children knows that these reports, even when absolutely truthful from their point of view, cannot be relied upon. Again, anyone who has had the training of children, has experienced the mortifying fact that even the best trained children sometimes woefully lapse from their knowledge of good manners and courtesy when away from home and among other children. Some parents will not tolerate any correction of their children's manners by the teacher, taking it as a direct insult to their home training, when it is but the result of childish heedlessness or self-will. No greater injury can be done a teacher than to condemn him or her in the presence of pupils. There are many who persist in believing and encouraging that a school teacher is never to be regarded with other than suspicion.—Oldham Era

Santa Claus Letter.

Dear Santa Claus—I am a little boy six years old. I have a little sister four years old. I have been going to school and like my teacher very much. I want you to bring me a new first reader, a checker board, a violin and ball, and sister wants a doll, a set of dishes and a little stove, and lots of candy, oranges and nuts and a popcorn popper. Don't forget mamma and papa. Be sure and come without fail.
Yours truly,
